

Formula Zero European Championship half-way

The Formula Zero European Championship is already half-way. The first two events of world's first championship powered by hydrogen fuel cell technology saw two different winners with Solvay Umicore Zero Emission Racing Team (Leuven, Belgium) finishing on top during the British GP while Unizartech2 (Zaragoza, Spain) took victory during the Dutch GP. Imperial Racing Green (London, UK) and Greenchoice Forze (Delft, the Netherlands) are working around the clock to beat their main rivals during the last two events in Belgium and Spain.

BRITISH GP, 20 AUGUST 2009

The Belgian and Spanish team where in a fierce battle to win the first round of the Formula Zero European Championship which was held at Mytchett Place (Londen) in the United Kingdom. Solvay Umicore Zero Emission Racing Team was just a few tenths of a second a lap quicker and won both the sprint and main race.

Home team Imperial Racing Green didn't start well by suffering some problems during the sprint race qualifying and lost the 2nd place play-off from Greenchoice Forze. But the British team at least scored one podium finish during this first event of the season by taking second in the main race. The Dutch team was fast during the sprint race and just missed the top spot. They would take revenge during the main race, but technical problems prevented the team from the Technical University Delft to make their way to the podium yet again.

Zero Emission Racing Team wins British GP, Unizartech2 celebrates Dutch GP victory

DUTCH GP, 23 AUGUST 2009

After winning the Formula Zero British GP, the Solvay Umicore Zero Emission Racing seemed unbeatable during the Dutch GP which was held on Sunday 23rd of August 2009 at Kombikart Circuit Nieuw-Zevenbergen near Oss, the Netherlands. But the Belgian team found some minor technical difficulties during the final of the main race. Unizartech2 was quick to take advantage of the slower lap of their main rival and won the Dutch GP.

With two different overall winners in two events, only Imperial Racing Green and Rotterdam FZ-GP (2008) winner Greenchoice Forze are seeking for a win in this Formula Zero European Championship. The British team finished both during the sprint and the main race on the podium, while the Dutch team wasn't able to start. As the Formula Zero racing series and student teams are developing and using new technologies, it can happen that unexpected technical difficulties appear. But it's a pity that it happened to this team during their home Grand Prix.

Witness Formula Zero's futuristic racing series live. Free entrance!

Saturday 29 August 2009, Circuit Genk: Europalaan 555, 3600 Genk (Belgium)

Thursday 3 September 2009, Motorland Aragón: Apdo de correos 174, 44600 Alcañiz, Teruel (Spain)

For more information, results and championship standings please visit FormulaZero.nl

Kind regards,
The Formula Zero Team

If you no longer wish to receive this mail, please unsubscribe.